

INSPECTION ROUTINE

FAQ AT HOME QUARANTINE

In certain cases, individuals have to isolate themselves in quarantine. The persons in question may choose to do so at home or at a designated health facility.

The persons affected by this regulation are those, who:

- have recently travelled to the province Hubei,
- or had contact with any sick individuals from the province Hubei, or
- had any contact with individuals confirmed to be infected by the 2019-nCoV virus in general.

Persons meeting any of the above criteria are obliged to proactively seek out the closest public health center and register there. Thereafter, individuals have to confine themselves to 14 days of quarantine at home or at a designated institution.

During the 14 days of quarantine, the concerned person:

- ought to avoid contact with other occupants of that living unit.
- ought to ensure their living space is clean and disinfected.
- must not leave home.

Staff of the public health center will visit, check and note the current state of health of the quarantined individual twice a day. At the occurrence of fever or any other signs indicating a possible infection, the quarantined person has to immediately contact the responsible health service center and will then be brought to a designated fever clinic for further treatment.
